REPORT OF THE VOLUNTEER CHAIR AND CEO

Celebrating the 35th year of the Royal University Hospital Foundation.

We are very grateful to our donors who, through their continued generous support, deeply affect people's lives by supporting innovations to patient care, medical education, research and those providing care at Royal University Hospital. Our donors ensure that our medical teams have the latest in advanced equipment and technology, improved facilities and the opportunity to pioneer new approaches to patient-centred care.

In 2015 we launched the largest campaign in our 35-year history, committing to raise $20 million over three years through The GREATER Campaign. Our goal was to raise and invest $10 million for the current Emergency Department's new seven-bed Mental Health Assessment Unit and for the under-construction and soon-to-be-opened Royal University Hospital's new Adult Emergency Department; $8 million for technology and equipment so that medical teams had the necessary tools for exceptional patient and family-centered care; and $2 million for people and programs to attract, retain and train top medical professionals.

As we wrap up this recent fiscal year, we are extremely pleased to report the success of the three-year campaign with more than $28 million in revenue and commitments having been raised! In fiscal year 2017–2018, more than $15.8 million in donations and commitments from donors, interest on investments, and gaming was achieved. Thank you to our donors, volunteers and medical teams who joined with us in demonstrating how important trauma, critical care and emergency priorities are for the people of Saskatchewan.

While these numbers are amazing, the impact of your generosity is what is most important. Our goal through

The GREATER Campaign was to invest donor support in a timely manner and we are proud to say this was achieved, with $15.9 million already granted and committed. Please take a moment to read the inspirational stories of obtaining FASTER response times, building STRONGER teams and providing NEWER equipment at Royal University Hospital.

From everyone at the Foundation – board members, volunteers and staff alike – we thank you for your support and your continued commitment to patients and their families. In closing, we would also like to thank the incredible team of dedicated staff for their efforts and success over the past year. We are very privileged to be able to work alongside these talented individuals.

creates excellence in and impacts health care by raising funds to anticipate and respond to needs for innovative research, education and patient care.

A MESSAGE FROM THE SASKATCHEWAN HEALTH AUTHORITY

Scott Livingstone

On behalf of the Saskatchewan Health Authority, I would like to extend our thanks to you for your continued support of the Royal University Hospital Foundation, especially during this past year of transition.

On December 4, 2017, Saskatoon Health Region became part of the Saskatchewan Health Authority. As one provincial health authority focused on better coordination of health-care services across the province, we want to ensure patients receive high-quality, timely health care, regardless of where they live in Saskatchewan. The work to unify the health system and coordinate system-wide transformation will be a multi-year journey that requires management and supports to exist close to where health services are delivered in order to address the needs of local communities.

Foundations are critical to supporting this provincial transformation.

Royal University Hospital has been the cornerstone of health care in Saskatchewan for over 62 years and we are continuing to witness its value and importance to health care delivery locally and across our province. This hospital would not be what it is today without the dedication and perseverance of RUH Foundation.

Through your donations to RUH Foundation, our staff and physicians have benefited from annual scholarships to advance their skills and their innovative research has been supported. I have seen how your contributions have benefited our care teams through the purchase of a wireless image archiving and training system known as Q-Path. This is an important component in the emergency room's increasing use of point-of-care ultrasound.

And emergency mental health care is improving as a result of the Foundation's support of our new Mental Health Assessment Unit.

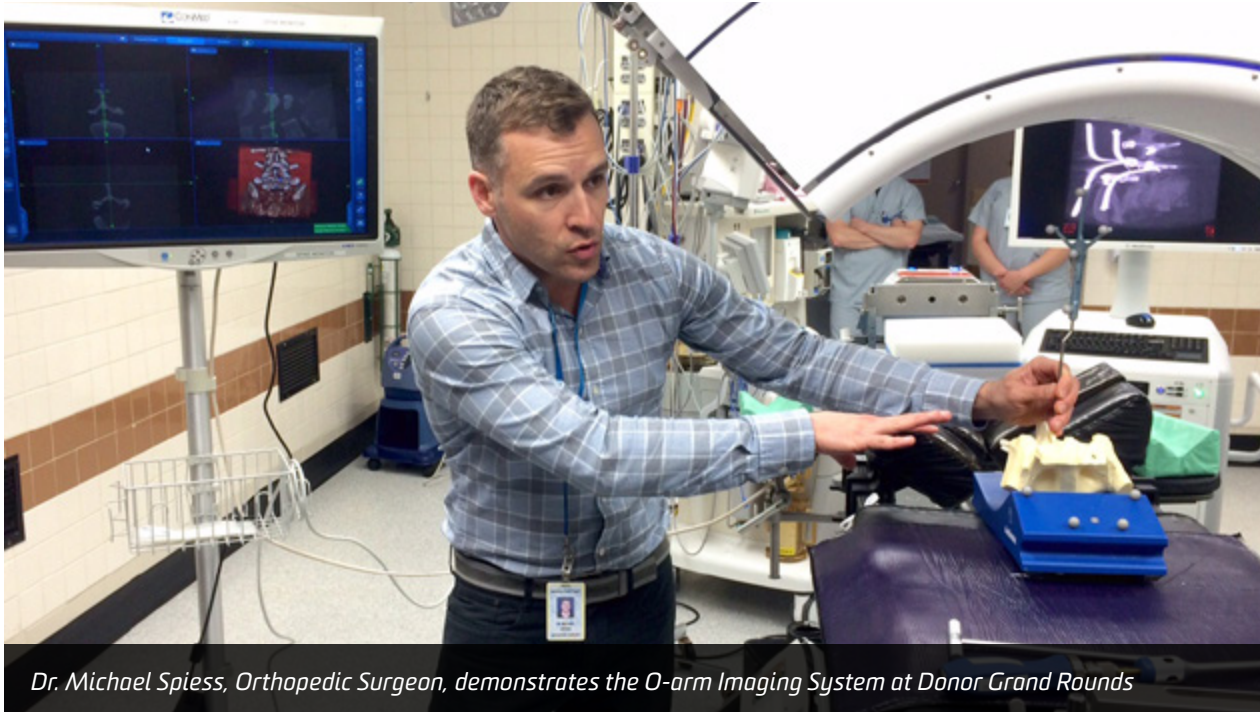

Your contributions have ensured our teams have the tools, technology and space to deliver compassionate and quality care. During the Humboldt Broncos tragedy, we saw first-hand how, together, rural communities and their dedicated and compassionate teams on the ground and in the air worked in synergy with trauma teams at Royal University Hospital.

This is why we are grateful for your continued support of RUH Foundation's GREATE.R. Campaign. Each year, over 60,000 people access the Emergency Department at RUH, last redeveloped 40 years ago. With a new Adult Emergency Department currently under construction and set to open in late 2019, your generous support will ensure we have advanced technology and medical imaging equipment. These include a dedicated CT scanner and an on-site PYXIS pharmacy dispensary unit, along with new monitors, stretchers and chairs as well as the creation of comfortable and private "quiet spaces" for patients and their loved ones.

You are helping us to be ready for the unforeseeable and the unimaginable. You are helping us build a stronger health system for tomorrow. There is no doubt it will take patience and perseverance to get us where we want to be as a health system, but your continued generosity and support of the Royal University Hospital will help truly transform health care in Saskatchewan.

CEO, Saskatchewan Health Authority

THE GREATER. CAMPAIGN 2015–2018

Dr. Michael Spiess, Orthopedic Surgeon, demonstrates the O-arm Imaging System at Donor Grand Rounds

Saving lives of the most critically ill and injured in our province is a daunting task. It is one that the medical teams at Royal University Hospital face every day and have been doing for more than 60 years.

To keep pace with the evolving needs of patients and in support of the medical teams who provide life-saving care at the province's busiest hospital, Royal University Hospital Foundation embarked three years ago on its most ambitious fundraising campaign in its 35-year history. The GREATER. Campaign was launched with the goal of raising $20 million.

Thanks to the overwhelming generosity of thousands of donors from across Saskatchewan and beyond, The GREATER. Campaign raised $28 million in support of trauma, emergency and critical care priorities at Royal University Hospital.

"It is an honour and privilege to work with our community of donors who are so committed to enhancing patients' experiences and their health outcomes, and educational and innovative research opportunities for physicians and staff members at the hospital," says Arla Gustafson, RUH Foundation CEO. "The impact of this support is helping generate faster response times, create stronger teams and purchase newer equipment that benefits patients and staff not only today but also for decades to come."

Adds Dr. James Stempien, Head of Emergency Medicine: "We are extremely thankful for the generosity of donors. Your support is enhancing our ability to save lives in an environment where seconds can literally mean the difference between life and death."

Trauma Program

"Supporting the Trauma Program was an easy decision for our family to make. It resonated with us knowing that every second counts when you are a patient requiring emergency care." – Don Neufeld, on behalf of the Neufeld Charitable Foundation, and Volunteer Vice Chair, RUH Foundation Board of Directors

Every day, someone's mother, husband, sister, colleague or friend is rushed to Royal University Hospital in the unexpected need of trauma, emergency and critical care.

Pneumatic Tube System

"Improving the pneumatic tube system will be of benefit in all patient-care areas of the hospital, particularly the Critical Care and Emergency Department areas that depend on rapid laboratory support to make medical decisions and improve patient flow. This means faster results, which in turn means faster diagnosis." – Dr. Fergall Magee, Department Head, Pathology and Laboratory Medicine

People such as Heather Thiessen, Chris Pointer, Paul Janzen, Sr., Peggy Benko, and Roger Pelletier are alive today because of the lifesaving care they received at the Hospital — each with their own unique medical story and reasons to live.

Mental Health Assessment Unit

"Irene and I cannot think of anything more important in health care today than ensuring mental health patients receive the care they require." – Leslie Dubé, philanthropist and lead donor to the new seven-bed Mental Health Assessment Unit that officially opened on April 30, 2018

Heather suffers from multiple sclerosis and myasthenia gravis, two diseases that have led to many visits to the Emergency Department and stays in the Intensive Care Unit.

"I have been intubated more than 10 times and have had two tracheostomies at RUH," says Heather. "Each time, the emergency team saved my life and gave me another precious opportunity to return home to be with my family."

Chris had been on his way to his mother's workplace to wish her Happy Birthday. He didn't make it. The motorcycle he was riding hit a patch of gravel. He was ejected and his body slammed heavily into a street sign. Chris arrived at RUH in life-threatening condition. "Without the skill, care and compassion provided by everyone at RUH, I wouldn't be here today enjoying life with my family and friends," says Chris.

Paul doesn't remember much about the third period of the hockey game in which he was playing goal. The goalie collapsed and was rushed by ambulance to RUH, where he was resuscitated and stabilized then eventually underwent triple bypass heart surgery.

"Were it not for the efforts of the E.R. staff and other medical teams at Royal University Hospital, my age would have been permanently fixed at 52, forever," says Paul.

Peggy, a Regina lawyer, unexpectedly suffered a ruptured brain aneurysm and stroke in her office. She was flown by air ambulance to the provincial stroke team at RUH, where she underwent a six-hour procedure to stop the bleeding.

LEGACY GIVING

Anne Seed was passionate about gardening and oil painting. She had a keen eye that helped her create both beautiful garden plots and landscape scenes.

From a creative standpoint, Anne's first impression often became a lasting one. It was also so in other aspects of her life, including her decision to include Royal University Hospital Foundation in her Will.

Anne passed away peacefully in October 2016 at the age of 95 years. According to her brother Ken Chomin, Anne herself was blessed with relatively good health throughout her life. Her time spent at RUH hospital most often involved supporting her husband Pat (Edward) Seed during the times he was a patient here.

"The first time Pat required care at Royal University Hospital, Anne remarked on how impressed she was with how both of them were treated by the doctors, nurses and other staff members," says Ken. "After each subsequent visit she would say the same thing."

He adds, "I truly believe it was that consistent quality of care and caring at RUH that resulted in Anne making provisions for the hospital in her Will."

The Foundation is extremely grateful to Anne – and to all others who make the decision to include Royal University Hospital in their Will.

Anne's wish for her approximately $100,000 bequest was to create a consultation room for Cardiac Care, designed specifically for meetings between doctors and families. Thanks to her donation, RUH's new Adult Emergency Department now will include a patient-and-family-centred space equipped for the needs and comfort of the loved ones of patients requiring cardiac emergency care at RUH.

During such highly stressful events, availability of the "right" space can make a big difference to concerned loved ones and medical teams alike, and Anne's gift will provide that place.

Many people include RUH Foundation when making their Will because they see health care to be an important priority. If you would like more information about how to bequest a gift to RUH Foundation in your Will, please contact Candace Boersma, Annual and Legacy Giving Officer, at 306.655.6501.
