

Royal University Hospital Foundation
Community Mental Health Endowment Grant Program
2022 - 2023

The Royal University Hospital Community Mental Health Endowment (CMHE) Grant Program was established through the Future in Mind Campaign (2007–2009) by Royal University Hospital (RUH) Foundation. Individual and corporate donors continue to support this priority on an annual basis through donations and the establishment of additional funds. The CMHE Grant Program is supported by an annual allocation from the Community Mental Health Endowment plus allocations from the following funds:

- Ken Arnold Addictions Fund
- Patricia Et Lawrence Rychjohn Family Fund
- Tom Et Nicole MacNeill Family Fund
- U of S Academic Psychiatrists Endowment
- Dr. Rudy Bowen Mood Disorders Fund
- Lynn Sterling McLean Fund
- Robert A. Steane Community Mental Health Fund

RUH Foundation's CMHE Grant purpose is to provide funds to enhance and bridge community based programming for patients and consumers or their families with Mental Health and Addictions Services (MHAS), offered by Saskatchewan Health Authority's (SHA) or by the University of Saskatchewan's (U of S) College of Medicine (CoM) Departments. CMHE grants are intended for pilot projects that typically would not receive funding through government or SHA capital or operating budgets. The intent is not to support ongoing programming unless there is a change in circumstances requiring additional funding or a change of funders.

Community Based Organizations (CBO'S) who have or currently receive funding from SHA, staff and physicians of SHA or U of S are invited to apply for funding to support a new, innovative program for patients, consumers or family members. The CMHE Grant is awarded once per year, with funding awarded for the following fiscal (April 1 to March 31) year. Grants awarded to the successful applicants should be budgeted for and expensed for by March 31 of the following year. The maximum grant request is $25,000. This year there is up to $95,000 available for funding.

The RUH Foundation CMHE Grant will focus on:

- Patient, consumers or client initiatives
- Development and enhancement of community access, integration, transportation, activities, and programs that break down isolation of patients and their families
- Intervention strategies for identified populations
- Public awareness and education initiatives
- Community based research
